Provincial Joint Exercise 12 – 14 March

Fog and low ceilings in Winnipeg and Brandon resulted in the postponement of the proposed provincial joint exercise to the weekend of 12-14 March. The public forecast looked good on Wednesday, but the fog came back in time to put the exercise at risk again. Friday afternoon provided a blue streak of hope, and two CASARA Winnipeg airplanes were able to depart for Swan River in marginal VFR. The weather cleared a few miles northwest of Winnipeg, and the transit was unremarkable. We were met in Swan by local CASARA members, checked into the hotel, and strolled to a nearby restaurant for an evening snack.

Jerry Roehr, Shawn Sexsmith (The Pas), Dan Laychuk (Swan River), and Tony Gulash (Swan River) are debriefed by Ron Malcolm (Swan River).

Saturday morning brought two airplanes from Brandon, one from The Pas, one from Flin Flon, and, much delayed by fog, one more from Winnipeg in the mid afternoon. An impressive total of twenty-seven CASARA members crowded the Swan River Flying Club building.

Gerry Angell (Flin Flon), Liz Rodinsky (Flin Flon), Fred Eshpeter (Brandon), Tony Gulash (Swan River), Al Tokar (Swan River), Edith LeSann (The Pas), Grace Schedler, Kevin Choy (Brandon), and Helmut Giersch prepare for their next flights, or just wait for something to happen.

By 10:30 am, airplanes were heading out on their assigned searches, travelling around the scenic Swan Valley. Crews were mixed so that each pilot was flying with a nav and at least one spotter from outside his zone. Pizza was waiting for the crews upon their return, and following a quick refuelling, airplanes went up for a second flight with remixed crews. Most crews also received a divert during their flights.

The last flight of the day came in at 6 pm, and the group headed to the restaurant for dinner. Many members also came to Chuck Wilson's hotel room for additional team building exercises.

Sunday morning came an hour too early, but airplanes departed starting at 10 am on their assigned searches. The same procedure was followed, with mixed crews, and diverts for ELTs or sector searches.

Al Fraser and Chris Black work on their charts.

All airplanes landed by 12:30, the crews were debriefed, and three platters of Subway subs disappeared. Good comments came out of the group debrief, and these ideas will help make Western Canada SAREx better.

Each participant received at least one flight on the ex, each pilot flew at least six hours, and, due to a shortage of navs, some nav trainees got a lot of practice.

By 5 pm, all Winnipeg airplanes were back at St Andrews, despite slightly gloomy weather.

All participants agreed that the exercise met its objectives, which was to provide an opportunity for members from around Manitoba to meet each other, and to learn to operate together. It also tested the abilities of members to adapt to a fluid situation, and allowed them to gain experience in some aspects of an actual search.
